SIW THOMAS

Dw i'n grochenydd sy'n gwneud potiau a phlatiau llwgar i'w defnyddio ar bwrrd cinio. Dw i'n mwynhau anwadalwch y broses danio, lle mae diffyg rheolaeth lawn o drawsnewidiad y clai a'r gwydreddau yn dod â bywiogrwydd i'r darn.

I'm a potter who makes colourful pots and plates to use at the dinner table. I enjoy the unpredictability of the firing process, where the lack of complete control in the transformation of the clay and the glazes brings a liveliness to the piece.

JANE EVANS

Yn draddodiadol defnyddir y dull printio Gyotaku i ddarlunio pysgod. Mae'n cyfeithu i "rhwbio pysgod". Dw i'n gwneud printiau Gyotaku gan ddefnyddio rhywogaethau botaneg mor lleol lle'n bosib. Mae pob printiad yn waith llaw ac yn unigryw.

The Japanese method of Gyotaku printing is traditionally used to print fish. It translates to 'fish rubbing'. I make Gyotaku prints using local marine and botanical species where possible. Each print is hand pressed and unique.

Dottie-May's sculptures and paintings symbolise personal themes through motifs of natural curiosities and the female figure. Jonathan's work explores nature, memory, and perception through abstract oil paintings.

GWENLLIAN VAUGHAN

'Siawns a threfn – mae paent yn cael ei dynnu, ei graffu ac ati, – a'i gyfuno gyda strwythurau geometrig eithaf manwl gwyr. Gall rhain fod yn gridiau yn unig, tetrahedronau, neu batrymau sy'n deillio o ffynonellau eraill.

'Chance and order - paint is pulled, scraped etc. - combined with fairly precise geometric structures. These maybe just grids or tetrahedrons, or patterns derived from other sources.
